FAQs

1. Is my privacy compromised when I share my story?

Your name never appears on the scenarios you share, so your story is always anonymous.

2. How do I know these stories are truly helpful? What if someone doesn't take it seriously and creates a completely irrelevant story just for fun?

We always make sure every submitted scenario goes through an approval process.

3. Why do I need to create an account on this website?

Meet your persona

From your statements, you are best fit as...

Passive Polly, aged 20

"I don't respond to or reciprocate any physical actions to hope they realise that I'm disinterested"

Polly is afraid of judgement from the member of the preferred sex and of their consequent actions.

Polly avoids confrontation at all costs because she doesn't like disagreeing with or upsetting people.

Polly doesn't want to draw attention to herself, so when she is in an uncomfortable situation, she uses subtle excuses or physical signs of being disinterested to avoid verbally confronting the member of the preferred sex or acting physically towards them.

I escaped a situation with a person I knew at his house.

A man sits on a red couch, looking towards a woman who is standing near a doorway. A thought bubble above the man contains the text "lipstick?". A speech bubble from the woman says "I'll be back in a minute." There are green checkmarks on the right side of the screen, indicating successful steps or learning points.

A screenshot of a web-based scenario creation tool. At the top, there's a navigation bar with icons for user profile, explore, help, and my profile. Below it, a toolbar includes "Create + Share", "Scenario components", "Build Scenario", and "Share Scenario". The main area shows a room scene with a speech bubble: "With a legitimate excuse, I was able to leave without confronting the person.". To the right, there are sections for "OBJECTS", "PEOPLE", and "POSITION". The "PEOPLE" section contains a search bar, emotion icons (one highlighted in red), and a list of three people. The "POSITION" section shows three character icons standing in different poses. At the bottom, there's a numeric slider from 1 to 9 and a plus sign icon, along with a "Next" button.
